Course Overview:
 In this semester of this studio course, students will continue the development of their foundation drawing skills. Through traditional subject matter, students will explore a range of materials and techniques. Composition, rendering skills, craftsmanship and originality of thought will be emphasized. As students develop and refine their skills with a variety of media, they will explore more advanced problems with emphasis on creative interpretation and imagery, enabling them to explore and design their personal expression. Individual and weekly group critiques. Preliminary plans and sketches are part of the creative process and are required. Students will create and maintain a digital portfolio.

Vision of the Successful Student And Core Competencies:
 Students will create original works of art for all of their assignments.
 Students will create designs for all of their drawing projects.
 Students will create drawings using the techniques that have been taught to them in the drawing courses.
 Students will be able to reflect upon their work during the semester.

Materials and Resources to Support Student Learning:
 Students need to have a sketchbook. Refer to class discussion when deciding what type to have.
 Students should come to class ready to work. When necessary the students should have the specific materials that pertain to certain projects. I.e. Research materials and tools...
